February 20, 1943!! The glorious day of our wedding. There was never any question that our honeymoon would be spent in Niagara Falls. We left our automobile in the Greyhound station and took the bus to Niagara Falls. The bus was crowded with servicemen and I was able to sit while my new husband stood in the aisle along with others. We walked from the bus station to our hotel, arriving about midnight. Since our money was very limited (I believe we had about $43.00 to spend) we had to check out the next morning. Upon arriving back in Rochester, we found two of our tires were flat. This is not a sad story. We were as happy and in love as anyone could possibly be and we decided that we would return to Niagara Falls for as many "honeymoons" as possible. Which we have done. I believe there were 4 years that circumstances kept us from celebrating on February 20th. During our early years, our two wonderful children were taken to our parent's home while we renewed the magic of our love on either the Canadian or U.S. side of Niagara Falls. It certainly has worked since we'll be celebrating our 50th anniversary this year and have hopes of spending another great "honeymoon" in Niagara Falls!!
